Sharefest is ready to assist boy scouts as they set out to achieve their Eagle Scout Rank. The identification of Eagle Scout projects and getting connected with recipient organizations can prove challenging. Sharefest has the solution. We have received hundreds of project submissions to date, and have community contacts, vendors relationships, and a project management guide in place. Some of the challenges of service projects are due to liability, risk, and simple lack of experience. Sharefest's role is to bridge the gap, offering support and project management training to our Project Managers, which we have developed over the years through the 1300 projects we've helped coordinate. We have worked with multiple boy scouts and their troops, and each one has led a successful Eagle Scout project. The volunteer hours worked by scouts within the troops have helped them meet advancement requirements to the earn the Star and Life ranks, as well as merit badges.

More About Sharefest

With a vision to create an imprint of lasting positive change in our community, Sharefest began as a simple idea to leverage a community's assets through the creation of working coalitions, growing local leaders, equipping interested youth and fostering volunteerism utilizing established community organizations. Rather than just coming in from the outside and encourage a community to be a consumer of services, Sharefest collaborates with communities to help themselves, developing ownership.

Sharefest focuses on mentoring youth to develop the leaders of tomorrow, fostering volunteerism in the community through service projects in specific points of influence including schools, parks and community programs, and establishing working coalitions made up of city leaders, schools, businesses and the faith community.
